Water and Sewer battle surfaces and sinks again

by Jeff Nazzaro

After an apparent end to issues surrounding the Board of Selectmen Water and Sewer Subcommittee two weeks ago, the cost of that subcommittee's investigation resurfaced in a heated battle Monday night.

Selectman Michael McCoy, citing "upset taxpayers," suggested that the issue of cost attached to the subcommittee's investigation of the water and sewer department be placed on the selectmen's agenda, perhaps at that board's next meeting.

This came after an apparent "peace" was struck between subcommittee member Diane Allan and Town Manager Michael Cairra, who two weeks ago hammered the subcommittee's findings in a detailed report he read at the selectmen's meeting.

Allan, in a brief statement, alluded to "misconceptions" contained within the subcommittee's report, presented to the board of selectmen at their November 11 meeting.

Allan contends the subcommittee never intended to insult or question the integrity of the town's financial officers as Cairra's report suggests. The selectman did say that the subcommittee's report "did focus on financial issues," of which she "spoke to the town accountant" and produced the "recommendation that consideration be given for adopting an enterprise accounting system. Town Accountant Michael Morris, according to both Allan and Cairra's report, does not favor the introduction of such a system to the town.

In closing, Allan said she met with the town manager and, at the request of Chairman of the Board of Selectmen Chester Bruce, concluded her report.

But Selectman Gerald Duggan, who with Allan makes up the subcommittee, after stating the subcommittee had "no intention of returning the water department to the way it was," took exception to Cairra's estimation at the previous meeting of the cost of the investigation running between $20,000 and $25,000.

Cairra had answered a question from Selectman Robert Cain as to how much the entire investigation had cost. Cairra, figuring in-staff time, including support staff for the offices of the town manager, water and sewer department and the DPW, arrived at the $25,000 figure.

Duggan pointed out that printing costs of the 1,100 pages of documents requested of the water and sewer department by the subcommittee via the town manager and distributed to the entire board as well as the manager would range only from $285.00 to $300.00 according to estimates from three local printers.

Cairra agreed, saying that the printing costs were "insignificant" compared to the staff time and effort invested in dealing with the subcommittee's request for information.

The 3,300 pages, or three sets of 1,000 (one for each member of the subcommittee and the town manager) was doubled after Cain requested all board members be furnished with a set of documents.

As the discussion bogged down into a numbers debate, Cairra pointed out that "the important part is that we have...saved [$170,000]." Seemingly speaking for all involved, Cairra concluded "We've discussed this matter probably to death."

But Cain, who has been highly critical of the subcommittee from its advent, took a final shot at Duggan and Allan.

"I still have no clue...I have no idea what the purpose or conclusion of the subcommittee was," he said, after which he and Duggan traded heated verbal jabs.

With Cain taking the Chair from the absent Bruce, no decision was made on the future of debate regarding the subcommittee, but Duggan left himself the opportunity to provide any new information to the board.

Wildcats make Middies first victim

by James Pote

With Wilmington High School's three fall sports (boys and girls soccer and field hockey) teams exiting stage left these past two weeks in their quest for state titles, the varsity football team defeated Dracut Saturday afternoon at Alumni Field, 43-13 to take center stage and their first victory of the season.

The Wildcats as usual, started off slowly, with Dracut scoring the first touchdown of the day which was caused by a Cats fumble on their own 16 yard line to jump out to the quick 7-0 lead.

However, Steve O'Neil and Bryon Burke once again put some much needed punch together to get the Wildcats over the hump for their first home victory in two years.

"I'm very happy for the kids, most especially the seniors. It is their first win here (Alumni Field) in two years. They deserve it. They got it on their own," said the very cheerful and soaking wet head coach Gerry Sullivan, who was also celebrating his first victory as the WHS' head coach.

Senior Keith Pearlstein (four carries 38 yards, one TD and 146 total yards) helped set up the first Wilmington touchdown with an 82 yard run on the ensuing kickoff of Dracut's touchdown.

Brian Burke (10 carries 56 yards, two TD's) started the drive with a four yard run that was washed out by a five yard penalty which set the Cats back to the Middies' six yard line. However, Burke redeemed himself and went through the Dracut line for a six yard gain and the touchdown to cut the lead to 7-6 after the two point conversion failed.

The second quarter was all Wilmington. The Cats put up 30 points on the broken scoreboard to extend their first half lead to 36-7.

It was all Steve O'Neil in the second quarter, as he put up 150 of his 212 total yards in that quarter alone, scoring two of his three touchdowns to help Wilmington earn its first victory.

"Stevie had a hell of a game. The offensive line also played great and that helped him create his holes. He played unbelievable," continued Sullivan.

O'Neil's set up his first touchdown (Wilmington's second). After a 62 yard run, he then followed with three carries for 25 yards, with the latter a carry of five yards for the touchdown.

Not only did the offense put up big numbers (435 total yards), but so did the defense. Senior Jack Warford stripped the ball from Scott Camarda (the leading rusher in Merrimack Valley Conference) to set up a 26 yard pass from senior quarterback Brian Tildsley to another senior, Josh Levesque, who ran it in for their third touchdown, with Brian Burke catching the two point conversion for the 14-7 lead.

After Wilmington fumbled on their 11 yard line, Dracut then gave it back to them to no avail, as it was Levesque doing the job on Camarda this time to set up Burke's second touchdown, as he ran in from the two yard line to put Wilmington ahead by a comfortable 21 points.

O'Neil then put the finishing touches on an impressive first half as he scored on a 40 yard run to the outside for the 36-7 lead as he totaled up 180 first half yards.

"It was a big relief to get this win off our shoulders. The line played great. They were the reason I had win first the game that I did. Both sides were very much open, no matter where I ran, there was an opening," said the beaming O'Neil.

The second half saw a touchdown for both sides, with O'Neil creating his last touchdown with an interception which led to his 20 yard run.

"This was a big win. The defense, most especially Josh Levesque and Dave Maglio, played great. Hopefully, we can keep this momentum going for the remaining two games," said co-captain Dave Fleming.

GOOD BUYS IN VACATION HOMES

Low mortgage rates and a slumping real estate market make it easier to buy a vacation home now, and a number of valuable tax breaks make it even more attractive. The best bonus of all is the promise of tax free income; you can rent out the house for up to 14 days and never have to report the income.

Once you rent it out for 15 days or more, the rental income is taxable, but against it you can write off related expenses like mortgage costs, depreciation, maintenance expenses, utilities and insurance. The are two strict limits: you can't deduct those expenses if you use the house more than 14 days yourself, or 10 percent of the days it is rented to others; and current deductions of rental losses of up to $25,000 a year are phased out as AGI increases from $100,000 to $150,000.

These limits are the reason that many well to do second home owners opt to make further use of the vacation house themselves, so that it will qualify as a second residence. Then mortgage interest is fully deductible, and the house may be used to secure home equity loans.

Considering a vacation home of your own? Talk it over with the people with financial know how at Joyce K. Brisbois, C.P.A.

Town Pulse & Opinion

Senator O'Brien urges welfare reform

by State Senator John O'Brien

As most of you may be aware, the issue of welfare reform has received a great deal of attention over the past few months. In addition to being the topic of many discussions within the state house, welfare reform has been written about extensively in newspapers throughout the state. The Joint Committee on Human Services and Elderly Affairs - subcommittee on Welfare Reform, chaired by my colleagues, Senator Therese Murray (D-Plymouth) and Rep. Paul Kollios (D-Millbury) are in the process of drafting comprehensive legislation to revamp the welfare system in the Commonwealth. The committee findings are expected in the coming weeks. Due to the attention this matter has received, I have decided to dedicate this month's column to a discussion of the issues surrounding welfare reform.

The Commonwealth spends nearly four billion dollars a year to support entitlement programs. This represents nearly one third of the state's annual budget. Massachusetts spends more on welfare than any other state in the country. Even though money is allocated for welfare spending, most people are in agreement that the welfare system as it presently exists is not working. Recent investigations of the system uncovered numerous cases of abuse and fraud that are widespread within the Massachusetts Department of Public Welfare. Although I realize that abuse of the welfare system is certainly not unique to the city of Lawrence, I do believe that the entire welfare system is in desperate need of reorganization. The investigation found that the welfare system itself allows for and encourages this abuse. I believe this abuse must end. Problems must be identified and meaningful steps must be taken to curb this abuse.

After reports of widespread abuse were uncovered in the Lawrence office of the Department of Public Welfare, I announced a plan to convene a special task force to investigate allegations of fraud and abuse. I requested the Bureau of Special Investigations, the US Attorney's Office, the State Attorney General's Office and the District Attorney's Office to join together to form a special investigative task force to scrutinize the operations of the Lawrence office of the Department of Public Welfare. I believe that the Commonwealth is in critical need of true, long-term welfare reform, and real welfare reform can only be achieved if fraud and abuse are combated.

The majority of the public has unfortunately lost its confidence in how public assistance is delivered in this state, and this can be attributed to the fact that a large number of individuals presently receiving assistance are not legitimately entitled to receive benefits. We need to regain the public's trust. The system must be changed so that the truly needy are the only ones receiving this assistance.

Members of the State Legislature have been working on ways to overhaul the welfare system in this state. Among the items the committee may recommend are: Workfare - most workfare proposals are grounded in the principle that able bodied citizens receiving benefits over a two year period, with children attending school may be required to work, receive job training, enroll in college, or contribute time as a volunteer on community service projects. The goal of this initiative is that these individuals may be able to gradually transition off the welfare rolls. The proposal will include certain exemptions for individuals who are pregnant, have children under school age, are disabled or caring for disabled individuals. If individuals refuse to accept this requirement, a portion of their benefits would be retained by the state. The intent of this initiative is to promote responsibility and offer financial incentives to individuals who work while receiving assistance, allowing these individuals to retain a portion of the money they earned, thereby regaining independence.

Clothing allowance: Yet another topic that is often debated in the discussion of welfare reform is a clothing voucher. Generally, this initiative refers to a voucher a parent or guardian receives to provide for the material needs of their children. The advocates of this approach believe this system ensures that the money the welfare system allocates for clothing is spent for this purpose.

Other topics that need to be discussed in any welfare reform proposals are the housing of individuals receiving public assistance. Changes must be made in the current system to allow for more flexibility and greater options. Policies concerning teen pregnancy as well as fraud are also being discussed in the reform package.

I am looking forward to reading the proposal submitted by the Human Services and Elderly Affairs Committee, and I am hopeful that the committee's recommendations will enable true welfare reform to begin. An important goal of any reform effort is to assure the taxpayers of Massachusetts that public assistance programs represent a constructive use of the Commonwealth's limited resources. I believe options and opportunities must be created to assist people to become self-sufficient, allowing them to move off the welfare system and regain their independence.

Story may save a life

Dear Larz:
On behalf of the Governor's Highway Safety Bureau, I would like to recognize the Town Crier, Wilmington edition for its coverage of the serious bicycle crash involving seven year old Michael Donato which appeared on September 29. Placing the story on the front page and attributing

Michael's survival to the fact that he was wearing a bicycle helmet, hopefully has educated many parents and potentially saved many young lives.

I also commend the parents of Michael Donato for their insistence that their children wear a helmet every time they ride their bicycles. Hundreds of children sustain serious head injury in Massachusetts every year because they were not wearing helmets in a bicycle crash. These head injuries are preventable.

No one can anticipate when a bicycle crash will occur; there is no advance notice. Michael Donato and his parents took responsibility for his safety and he is alive and well today because of it. We urge parents to learn from the Donato's experience and insist that their children wear a helmet when they're riding bicycles and to set a good example by wearing one themselves.

Sincerely,
Nancy J. Luther

Bill Simpson was a generous man

Dear Larz:
As the two year anniversary of my dad's death approached, I decided I was finally ready to write a few words about a wonderful man. At the time of his death my family and I were too overcome with our grief to put anything into writing even though my dad was deserving of those words.

William T. Simpson was a very generous man who gave unselfishly and most often anonymously to the children and citizens of Wilmington. He made large donations to any playground being constructed, the library, so the children could have a museum pass available to them, the Regional Health Center, the Senior Center, and the DARE Program just to name a few. In addition, if any child in my classroom was ever unable to pay for a field trip or other activity, my dad would always, and again silently, pay for that child to take part.

So as I reflect on the loss my family has suffered, my mom a devoted, loving husband, my two sisters and I a wonderful father and our children an adoring grandfather, I want you to realize that the people of Wilmington, especially the children, lost a great man, too. For even though you may not have known him, my dad knew and loved all of your children. He is, and will continue to be sorely missed.

Troops picked up 4 truckloads of trash

The November 14, 1968 edition of the Town Crier of Wilmington noted that:

Roy Robinson of Webber Street was presented the Purple Heart in Vietnam on October 25.

WHS cross country coach Frank Kelley was pictured as he accepted a trophy from his athletes in appreciation of his sportsman like conduct and his abilities. The JV and the cross country team had been undefeated for two years.

Mrs. Robert Conlin of Gunderson Road was appointed Welcome Wagon Hostess.

Bob Perkins of Charlotte Road received his license as a hot air free balloon pilot. The commercial license was one of about 200 in the country.

Patrolman Bernard P. Nally, Jr. graduated November 9 from the Northern Middlesex Police Academy.

A smiling Joseph Murphy of Gunderson Road accepted his "Salesman of the Year" trophy from representatives of the Boston Branch office of the Remington Rand Systems during a dinner held at the Pillar House in Newton.

Boy Scout Troops 56 and 63, during a project to clean up the town park, picked up four truck loads of beer cans and other debris, including an old washing machine and all sorts of garbage. The two and a half ton trucks were on loan from the Water Department.

It was a double for Rocco and a total surprise, at a victory banquet he hosted in his restaurant, as the two sports teams he sponsored combined to give him a couple of victory cups. Ricky Ethier Jr. was pictured holding the Wilmington Flag Football League Championship trophy and Rocco was pictured holding the Wilmington Softball trophy.

Lucci's Super Market offered U.S. choice pot roast at 68 cents a pound; white bread, seven loaves for $1 and Emperor grapes, 19 cents a pound.

Chef Joe Williams returns to Shawsheen Tech

Joe Williams, who has cooked all over the country during the past decade, said he was simply "in the place at the right time," when a chef-instructor position opened up this fall at Shawsheen Tech.

For Williams, the right place meant not only coming home - he is from Billerica, but coming back to his alma mater. Williams graduated from Shawsheen in 1984, with a specialty in culinary arts. He won a gold medal in the state competition of Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (VICA) in culinary arts, came in third in the country in the national contest, and was named to an international competition team. He graduated from the prestigious Culinary Institute of America in Hyde Park, N.Y., with an associate degree in occupational studies and perfect attendance. Later, he added classes in nutritional cuisine, and certifications as a culinary arts instructor and certified working chef (CWC).

He worked at several restaurants in Houston, Texas, including the Hyatt Regency, Ritz Carlton/Remington Hotel and University Hilton where he was executive chef, overseeing a staff of 30 as well as working with students in the associated Conrad N. Hilton College of Hotel and Restaurant Management.

Williams moved on to cruise ships, as executive chef for the Clipper Cruise Line based in St. Louis, and most recently the New Orleans centered Delta Queen Steamboat Company. With a schedule that included several weeks of periodically, Williams came home to visit and to substitute teach at Shawsheen. It was here that he heard about the retirement of chef-instructor Al Mazman, and decided to apply for the job.

The same, but different

The new teacher enjoys the students as well as "being back with the guys who taught me," although calling other teachers by their first names is still a bit awkward. "It is a little weird to be working side by side with the people who taught me," he said, but added that it was all familiar too. "The kitchen looks the same, the people look the same."

Not everything will stay the same, however. Williams brings his experience in the field into the kitchen, where a "hearty and healthy" daily entree shares menu space with traditional favorites. Customers like the new offerings, which substitute herbs, lemon and lime for quantities of butter, cream and salt.

Trying something new

Williams endeavors to maintain a professional approach with students, with the added insight of one who has been in their place. "I tell them I can catch them at their own game," he said. "I want the kids to know they're here to learn, and we're here to teach."

What Williams likes best about teaching is "showing someone something they've never seen before. I like students to be interested. That's usually true at Shawsheen, because the students pick the shop," he said. During the last week of each semester, Williams would like to introduce something new to Shawsheen students. "I'd like to operate an a la carte restaurant," he said. This would mean that future chefs would individually prepare items as they are ordered, rather than simply complete a menu item that has been started before. Williams, who also operates a catering business, will develop a special menu so students can offer some catered items, such as platters of hors d'oeuvres.

The new instructor said his favorite job before teaching was at the Ritz Carlton. "I was just out of school, and was exposed to a restaurant with very high standards at a four star, four diamond hotel," he said.

Shawsheen Tech's student run restaurant, The Ram's Head, is on the way to great ratings as well, if his goals are achieved. "Enrollment is picking up, we're responding to changes in dining habits, the kids are responsive." Williams predicts that in two years, we'll have the best culinary program in the state.

Williams does not limit his influence to the Shawsheen kitchen. "I've been networking with friends to place students in co-op and part time jobs," he said, underlining the value of real world experience. When Williams gets out of the kitchen, he enjoys going to Vermont to relax and playing golf.

Ann Marie Brennick, right, Public Power coordinator for the Reading Municipal Light Department, highlights some of the benefits of public power with Wilmington High School science teacher James Megyesy, second from right, and some of the students in his class. Ann Marie was at the school with a display about energy conservation and public power as part of the RMLD's Public Power Week and Energy Awareness Month activities. The display was in the library for greater visibility among the students. Pictured with Ann Marie and Mr. Megyesy are students (front row, left to right) Eric Shaffer, Patrick Cahill, Fernando Cucci, Jason Vena, Lynette Thomas, Adam McIver and Matt Southmayd. Summer reading in Tewksbury

This past summer all Tewksbury Public School students were asked to participate in the Tewksbury Summer Reading Program. This is a unique educational activity where the school system provides direction and urges students to continue their literary development over the summer - on their own schedule and with a wide range of book choice. To make a successful program, adults and students need to work together cooperatively and productively.

Students were asked to read and report on a minimum of three books over the summer vacation. Parents were asked to sign the report forms, representing their support for the students and for the program.

At the elementary level, this system wide summer reading program was a new initiative. With the help of the elementary reading specialist (Ms. Cathy Ronan, Dewing; Ms. Susan Lachance, Heath Brook; Ms. Karla Conway, North Street; and Mrs. Robert Horgan, Trahan), the school and town librarians and two local bookstores, three multi-grade book lists were developed.

At the middle school, book lists were created under the direction of Mr. James McGuire, with the help of the middle school English teachers and reading specialists.

High school parents and teachers worked to refine the existing summer reading program. The book list was updated by a volunteer committee from the Humanities Department, under the direction of Mr. Warren Bowen. Several discussions about summer reading were conducted with the high school Parents Advisory Committee. The program was publicized more widely, and students were told that their reports would be kept in a year long portfolio and that there would be a check-off box on the report card noting whether or not they participated.

The chart below indicates the percentage of students who turned in reports at the different grade levels. The other figure indicates the percentage of student who took part, but did not meet the three book requirement.

Grade 1, 54 percent completed; 55 percent attempted; grade 2, 66 percent completed, 66 percent attempted; grade 3, 62 percent completed, 64 percent attempted; grade 4, 53 percent completed, 66 percent attempted; grade 5, 53

Grade 6, 44 percent completed, 44 percent attempted; grade 7, 53 percent completed, 59 percent attempted; grade 8, 24 percent completed; 27 percent attempted.

National Honor Society launches school year

The Tewksbury Memorial High School (TMHS) National Honor Society has launched its programs for the 1993-94 school year. Many activities planned by the organization involve community service. This year's officers are Jessica Sands, Kristen Ford, Melissa Lino, and Tina Rideout. Eric Krzywicki and Mike Holmes are service chairpersons and Nicole Rauseo is in charge of public relations. All have been working closely with their adviser, Carole Accone, in planning many projects.

A tutoring system has been set up at the high school. This is a service given by the National Society members to their classmates. The tutors use their study periods to help students who may be having difficulty in a particular subject.

Other plans include soliciting winter coats for local shelters, collecting funds for Sun Santa, and taking Christmas gifts to the residents of Tewksbury State Hospital.

The honor society worked with the art department decorating pumpkins to sell for Halloween. The society has also scheduled a Thanksgiving dance for Friday, Nov. 19, and is planning a trip to Florida in March.

Finally, the society is sponsoring a benefit basketball game. This year's game should be quite exciting with the return of the Harlem Magicians who will challenge the Tewksbury teaching staff. Proceeds from the March game will be used for scholarships.

Stephanie Lucas, places fourth out of 70

Stephanie Lucas, a Latin III Tewksbury Memorial High School student, attended the National Junior Classical League Convention at Miami University in Ohio with 70 delegates from other Mass. schools this summer. She came home with a fourth place ribbon for her performance on the Latin Derivative II test. This is the second time that Ms. Lucas has surpassed hundreds of Latin students from around the country and placed in the top five on derivative tests.

The Tewksbury Junior Classical League awarded Stephanie a check this fall to reimburse her for some of her trip expenses. Stephanie is already making plans to attend the 1994 National Convention in Tennessee where she will again compete in classical academics.

ALL AROUND TRAVEL
Travel Update

by Peggy Lee
President/Owner

PSSST! FOR WOMEN ONLY!

Any males reading this column are kindly asked to stop right here and pass the paper along to a female friend, co-worker, or spouse who might enjoy some personal time away from it all. Travel options tailored expressly for women are growing in numbers and variety. For example, women who have always wanted to learn to sail but may have been a bit intimidated by their burlier male counterparts can now find all-female programs ready to guide them in a relaxed atmosphere through courses around the world. Likewise, as the weather takes a turn toward winter, all-women ski programs are available. Other such packages include mountain trekking, wilderness canoeing, and special "over 40" tours.

Whether you're traveling alone or with family or friends, complete personalized travel services are always included when you let ALL AROUND TRAVEL take charge. If you are planning an overseas trip, for business or pleasure, keep in mind that we can help with all the necessary documentation, hotel and car rental confirmation, travel insurance, etc. At 203 Jefferson Rd., N. Wilmington (Rt. 62), we're professionals at making your travel arrangements wherever and whenever you go. We're open Mon-Fri 9-5 and after hours by appointment (658-2313).

HINT: Many traditional travel packages also accommodate women in such ways as offering to pair solo-travelling roommates.

Tewksbury senior topics

Tewksbury senior citizens will hold a Sunday breakfast benefit Sunday, Nov. 14 at the Senior Center from 7:30 to 11. Adult tickets are $4 each, while tickets for children under 12 are $2 each and toddlers free. The menu for the morning will include pancakes, bacon, scrambled eggs, home fries, beans, cinnamon bread, juice and coffee. All proceeds from the event will benefit the Greater Lowell Alzheimer's Association (GLAA).

Many thanks have been extended to all those people who helped with the Senior Center Crafts Fall Fair, as well as to all those who contributed gifts and items for the fair. The thoughtfulness is very much appreciated. There was a great turnout, and seniors are grateful to all those who patronized the fair.

Winners of the crafts raffle have been contacted and a list will be posted at the Senior Center.

Again, the Council of Aging has extended its thanks to the Tewksbury/Wilmington Elks members for the wonderful Thanksgiving they provided local senior citizens. Once again, Elks members excelled in yet another great event.

Winners of the Senior Center Halloween contest were: Rose McKenna, the sexiest gypsy; Ora Maxwell as the ugliest bag lady; Ray Paquin as the scariest ghost; Alice Littlefield as the most original Christmas Tree; Betty Welch as the most original "Lady Godiva," and Natalie and Everett Thistle as the best couple - The GAC policeman and his prisoner - the day of the night.

Congratulations have been extended to all those seniors who dressed in costume for the event. They all looked great and added a very special touch to the Halloween party.

All those seniors who have signed up for the Weathervane/Christmas Tree Shop trip of Monday, Nov. 15 are reminded that payments for the trip are due by Friday. Pickup for Monday's trip will begin at 9:45 a.m. Departure from the Senior Center will be at approximately 10:45. There may be a few openings on this trip. Those interested should call the Senior Center at 640-4480.

A representative from New York Life has tentatively been scheduled to make a presentation on financial planning at the Senior Center Tuesday, Nov. 15 at 10 a.m. Those interested in attending should call the Senior Center to confirm that the presentation will be held as scheduled.

The Council on Aging has announced that Bernie Shea and Herbert van Hogeand have successfully completed a Serving Health Information Needs of Elders (SHINE) training course which was administered by the Executive Office of Elder Affairs and Elder Services for the Merrimack Valley, Inc. SHINE is meant to ensure that Mass. Elders have access to accurate information regarding health care options. Mr. Shea and Mr. van Hogeand are certified SHINE volunteers who will be available to meet with seniors at the Tewksbury Senior Center. Both gentlemen will be available for consultations on the following Thursdays: November 18, December 2 and December 9 from 10 a.m. to mid-afternoon. One must call the coordinator to arrange an appointment. A regular schedule of SHINE volunteer hours will begin in January. For more information, call 640-4482.

The Council on Aging will hold its regular monthly meeting Thursday, Nov. 18 at 3 p.m. The election of the 1994 chairman will take place at this meeting. All are welcome to attend.

The seniors will hold a decorating spoon project Saturday, Nov. 20 from 1 to 3 p.m. Decorated spoons will be donated to the "Santa's Kitchen" Project Bread Program to help raise money for the homeless. Seniors are invited to sign-up for this event and take along a child. It is hoped that the Tewksbury Girl Scouts will join in as they did last year.

Reminders: Payments for the Vanity Fair Outlet trip of December 17 are due by November 17; the Kids and Seniors Together (KAST) program at the Heath Brook School will be held Friday, Nov. 19 at 9:30 a.m. Any senior citizen interested in visiting the classrooms to share their experiences of Thanksgivings past should sign-up at the Senior Center; an activities meeting has been scheduled for November 23 at 10 a.m. As always, all are invited to join in the meeting.

Seniors interested in joining the group that will be visiting Mrs. Morris' class at the Dewing School Tuesday, Nov. 23 from 1 to 2:15 p.m. are asked to contact the coordinator; and a Government Food Distribution will be held at the Senior Center Wednesday, Dec. 1 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Tickets for the annual Senior Center Christmas dinners were distributed this past Tuesday. Since this article is submitted prior to his happening, it is impossible to note if there are any tickets left for the dinners. However, if one calls the Senior Center now, information will be available. In any event, a waiting list will be compiled of those interested.

Since there has been a senior who has dropped out of the beginners oil painting classes for the remainder of this fall semester, there is one opening for this class at the time of this article submission. This class is held on Friday afternoon at one o'clock and will be the final class project of the semester. If interested, please call the senior Center and speak to Linda Brabant.

Area businesses can take advantage of free services offered by the Town of Wilmington's Small Cities Employment Assistance Program. Town Manager Michael Caira has announced that during November the Town Program will begin its outreach to area businesses this week in an effort to involve widespread community participation.

According to Caira, "it doesn't matter whether a business is growing or downsizing, the Program can help. The ultimate goal is to match Program clients with businesses so that Wilmington residents can work. This is a community program. I don't know of another one like it."

Who are Program clients? They are friends, neighbors and family members with skills that range from warehouse workers, to financial wizards, to chemical scientists. "When a business has a job opening," said Caira, "valuable time spent screening applicants can be saved by contacting the employment assistance Program for qualified referrals."

Companies that are paring down their workforce can refer laid off employees who live in Wilmington to the Program to take advantage of training certification and on the job training programs. Comprehensive job search support is also available to unemployed

Job search

Cathy Beyer of the Wilmington Employment Assistance Program reminds residents that job search help is still very much available.

Wilmington residents including weekly employment seminars, mental health counseling, individual career counseling, and referrals to other agencies. In addition, the Job Resource Center, with computer access and job listings, is available as an office for job search activities.

Employers should note that those aspects of services involving direct monetary assistance, such as training grants and mental health counseling, will require Wilmington residents to meet federal income guidelines.

"With the local economy picking up," Caira continued, "we hope businesses will be adding staff." Job openings can be phoned in or faxed to the Program to be included in the Job Bank at the Job Resource Center. Permanent, temporary, contact, full time and part time work are welcomed.

Businesses who want to aid this community service program can donate used office equipment, furniture and other resources for residents to use at the Job Resource Center. Speakers for the Monday Employment Seminars and other forms of Human Resource assistance can also benefit the program.

Businesses are encouraged to contact either Cathy Beyer or Glenn Garber at 658-6333 to discuss ways to work with the Program to benefit the Wilmington community. The Small Cities Employment Assistance Program office is located in room 4 of the Wilmington Town Hall at 121 Glen Road.

"Fiddler on the Roof" at Barrows Auditorium

Even though the name is slightly different, the North Regional Theatre Workshop (NRTW), (formerly the North Reading Theatre Workshop) continues to bring quality musical theatre to the communities around North Reading. The name change also reflects the fact that NRTW's members come from an ever broadening area, including Wilmington and Tewksbury. Performing in NRTW's fall production of "Fiddler on the Roof" are Sean McLaughlin and Maureen Carreiro of Wilmington and Wayne Hinckley of Tewksbury.

"Fiddler on the Roof" will be performed November 19, 20, 26 and 27 at 8 p.m. in the newly renovated Wilmington High School Barrows Auditorium, Route 62, Wilmington. Group rates are available, along with discounts for seniors and children under 12. For ticket reservations, or for more information, Please call 508-664-3949.

Mr. McLaughlin plays Mendel, the Rabbi's son and made his NRTW debut in last fall's "The Music Man," and was featured in their spring revue, "All Aboard for Broadway!" His other credits include "Applause" with the Arlington Friends of Drama and "Anything Goes" with the Newton Community Players. He has trained with the Actors Workshop, Lyric Stage and studied voice with Aaron Retano of Everett.

Ms. Carreiro, who plays Shandel, Motel's mother, has appeared in several productions since joining NRTW in 1987 to dance in "42nd Street." Her various roles include Apassionata Von Climax in "Li'l Abner," and Sally Cato in "Mame." She claims her favorite shows are the ones she can "stay in the background and just dance!" Ms. Carreiro serves on the NRTW Board of Directors as Treasurer.

Wayne Hinckley is cast as the Russian soldier Sasha. He also says he is more comfortable "out of the limelight," preferably back stage or with his power tools building sets, but he has been seen on NRTW's stage several times, most recently in the role of Charlie Cowell in "The Music Man."

"Fiddler on the Roof" has become a classic musical drama for the way it so warmly shows the changes that threaten the delicate balance of tradition that Teyve and the other villagers have lived with all their lives. The story is set in the little Russian village of Anatevka at the turn of the century, but it could be anywhere that a community is faced with hard times and meet them with grace, humor and dignity. The well known musical score includes, "Tradition," "Sunrise, Sunset," "L'Chaim (To Life)," "If I were a Rich Man," and "Far from the Home I Love."

ARE YOU PROTECTED?

by Edward H. Wilkens

TO CURE OR TO KILL

QUESTION: Is it true that some medication can be as dangerous for drivers as alcohol and even more dangerous when mixed with alcohol?

ANSWER: To many drivers, medications such as sedatives, tranquilizers, anti-histamines and some antibiotics have much the same effects as alcohol. They tend to slow down reflexes and can cause drowsiness or dizziness. Taken in combination with alcohol, they can become devastating. This is called a synergistic effect.

Don't put too much faith in the effect of "stay awake" pills for overcoming fatigue. They can actually put you to sleep with your eyes open.

MIXING LIQUOR with tranquilizers can be fatal to drivers. The effect is multiplied.

Lawrence Welk Show

Thursday, Nov. 11 is Veterans' Day a holiday. Even though the center will be closed, it will be a busy day. The buses for the Lawrence Welk Show will be leaving the center at 12:30 p.m. Those who have signed up for the show should be at the center no later than 12:15 p.m. As with all our bus trips the handicapped bus will be boarded first. Seniors are asked not to park in the parking area next to the building, but along the fence or in the back of the building. If there is no place left, drivers are asked to park in the Swain School parking lot, but not along the Street. Enter the center upon arrival and remain inside until all the buses have backed into the area next to the building.

Seniors are reminded that they will not be admitted to the show without a ticket. Due to the mixup on the Tewksbury/Wilmington Elks tickets when buses return from the show there will be enough time to get to the Elks for their annual Wilmington Thanksgiving Senior Citizen Dinner Dance, being held at 6:30 p.m.

Podiatrist

The podiatrist will be at the center Wednesday, Nov. 17. He will be treating ailments of the feet. Call the center for an appointment (657-7595 or 658-2258). The doctor needs to know how many patients he will be seeing in order to schedule his time.

Blood pressures/diabetes

The nurse will be at the center checking blood pressures and giving diabetes tests Thursday, Nov. 18 beginning at 1:30 p.m.

Commissioners meet Nov. 16

The Commissioners meeting will be held in the function room of the Senior Center Tuesday, Nov. 16 beginning at 2:30 p.m. A representative of the police department will be the guest speaker. He will address the group on ways to protect oneself in this violent society. Light refreshments will be served.

Programs

There has been increased participation in most of the many programs at the center. There are a few that not only help seniors meet new friends, but also help them learn a hobby.

The shop class instructed by Joe Filipowicz has openings for a few new students as does the upholstering class, led by Ray Allen who has been reupholstering and teaching classes for years. Both Joe and Ray have retired and generously donate their time. To take part, just drop by the center Thursday from 9 to noon.

Card games and pool are enjoyed at the center, but could use more participants. The game room is open daily from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Newcomers always welcome.

Fair committee

The Fair Committee members are slightly disappointed. They do not have enough articles to fill their tables or the promise of articles. They are in desperate need of knitted and crocheted items. The young parents will be looking for mittens of all sizes, sweaters and hats. The craft table needs any craft articles and of people with such talents to be at the center Wednesday mornings to help in the completion of projects, including ceramics, woodcrafts etc.

History lesson

Town Crier publisher Larz Neilson tells a few historical tales to Jeremy Miller, Jennifer Pone and Stephen Gravelle in Mrs. Keating's third grade class at the Shawsheen School last week.

The nutrition tables need help along with the Christmas table, jewelry, new gifts, toys and bakery table. The chance books are not moving. In order not to cancel the Christmas open house party or the July buffet luncheon, the fair must be successful.

Those interested had better "get a move on" as there are just a few weeks left until the December 11 fair!!

Determined Wilmington goes down fighting

by Jeff Nazzaro

On a rainy, muddy Friday afternoon at Alumni Field, 19 determined young women brought Wilmington High School girls soccer its' first-ever state tournament victory, edging the Big Blue of Swampscott, 1-0, on a goal by sophomore Renée Vachon, before being nudged out Sunday by top-seeded Masconomet, 4-2. Vachon scored all three tournament goals for Wilmington, with tri-captain Adrienne Fay assisting each time.

Big Blue may have been a more fitting name for coach Sue Hendee's Wilmington squad, as all-conference halfbacks Nancy Pote and Adrienne Fay started Friday's game on the sidelines nursing injuries.

After a lackluster and scoreless first half in which Wilmington's all-conference goalkeeper Mary Armata kept her team in the game with several tough saves, Hendee blasted her team.

"You're not playing like the team I've coached all year...you're playing like you don't care...I'm not ready for this season to be over," she shouted.

But the team appeared as if they were. Pote sat on the wet field, a large ice bag over her ailing left knee and her teammates huddled around her. Cold and wet and not playing their best, when the referee signaled for the second half to start, the ice came off and with it the lethargy that plagued the Lady Cats over the first 45 minutes.

From that point on, Willy beat Swampscott all over the field, getting to most contested balls and, yes, scoring the game's only goal.

It took only 27 seconds after Hendee's halftime speech for Fay to find Vachon on the right wing with a long, leading pass. The sophomore forward caught up to the ball, but the Swampscott keeper had no chance of catching up to the Vachon's high, scoring kick that eventually gave Wilmington girls' soccer its' first post-season victory in only its' eighth year of existence.

After the game, Hendee, who has coached the team for all but one of those seasons, said, "This is definitely the big monkey off the back."

But with only 27 seconds gone in the second half and holding onto a 1-0 lead, the girls in their home blues had a lot of soccer left to play.

Pote, who limped in pain early in the half, only played harder in sparking offensive opportunities along with junior forward Kerri Casella and senior tri-captain Jill Murphy.

Armata, in posting the shut-out, was perfect when she had to be in the second half, with a lot of help from a recharged defense, especially junior all-star fullback Jacqui Hayden.

Hayden played tough in asserting herself the entire game, particularly in the last ten minutes, when many of her teammates seemed to be standing around waiting for the three-whistle burst that would signify the win.

The final Swampscott threat was handled by senior tri-captain and fullback Jenn Murray, whose clearing kick deflected off an opponent and to sophomore all-star defender Nicole Dussault, who sent it away.

Only two days later, the Cats would have to travel to take on top-seeded Masconomet and their outstanding forward, Becky Blazer, whom Hendee called "just a phenomenal player" and without question the best individual player her team had faced all season. Blazer would account for three of Masco's four goals, adding an assist as well.

But Willy hung tough. Down 3-0 at the half, Vachon and the Wildcats outscored the top-ranked team 2-1 in the second half.

Vachon's goals were virtual mirror images of one another, both coming on head-balls after indirect kicks from Fay. She nearly added another big goal for a hat trick following a Wilmington corner kick.

But Blazer and Stephanie McCarte, who added two assists for Masconomet, proved too tough for the Cats, despite a valiant effort by Armata, as the offense could only get their squad as close as two goals.

Hendee called the 4-2 final deficit "a very respectable score for a decent team" especially playing against one that can seemingly "...score at will."

There will always be that rainy Friday afternoon when Fay, caked in mud, and Pote, grimacing in pain and Casella, reaching for her inhaler and Armata, reveling in the mud and her glittering performance, were, with the rest of their Wilmington High School teammates- true champions.

D' Team drops title game

Wilmington's Pop Warner D' team lost a hard fought 30-13 championship game against Arlington Sunday.

Arlington opened the scoring with a 55 yard drive to score (first against Wilmington this year) extra point failing.

Wilmington came right back with a 52 yard run by "Bo" Boudreau, behind great blocking by the left side of the line, down to the six yard line. Boudreau scored from the three yard line three plays later to tie the score at 6-6.

Arlington then drove 63 yards in seven plays to go up 12-6 at the start of the second quarter.

Wilmington fought back again to tie the score on a 46 yard touchdown run by Boudreau. Jim Fennelly added the extra point to put Wilmington up 13-12.

Arlington scored late in the second quarter to take a 19-13 lead at the half.

Arlington scored once in the third quarter and then put the game out of reach in the fourth. The whole Wilmington team played hard and had a great season before they lost to a great Arlington squad.

Wildcats forgot the past in first victory

by James Pote

The Wilmington High School football team quickly forgot all about their winless record and their consecutive home losing streak as they pounded the Dracut Middies 42-13, for their first victory of the season Saturday. It was time to concentrate on nothing but football and the future.

However, the first part of the season was a long, bumpy road for the Wildcats, as they faced Central Catholic, Chelmsford, Billerica and Lowell in their first games over the tough MVC schedule.

The Wildcats did not hang their heads however, as they held Chelmsford to a 9-0 score at halftime and held Billerica scoreless in the second half. While their offense showed much improvement against Methuen and Andover, still they were winless, coming up a few yards short against Andover, a team they outplayed.

"We definitely outplayed Andover. It seemed every game either mental mistakes or penalties killed us," said WHS' co-captain Dave Fleming.

Wilmington chalked up over 100 yards in penalties against Andover, but that was all turned around against Dracut.

"Penalties have killed us all year, but today (against Dracut) we held our own and it shows how they (penalties) have hurt us tremendously," explained head coach Gerry Sullivan.

Throughout the last few weeks, Wilmington has shown a lot of promise, especially on the offensive side, with Steve O'Neil and Bryon Burke teaming up for what now is an impressive combination.

The two combined for 217 of the 280 total yards against Andover, and against Dracut, O'Neil busted it wide open with 212 yards and Burke had a respectable 56 yards to combine on 268 of the 435 total yards.

"I like the work a lot. It's fun. Brian does a great job, I enjoy sharing the roles with him," continued O'Neil.

Wilmington only has two more games remaining on their schedule with Lawrence and the traditional Thanksgiving fest against Tewksbury. With Lawrence in the cellar and Tewksbury getting blown out as of late, there seems to be much hope for Wilmington to notch a few more wins.

"I think we definitely have the chance for two more wins. The team can not wait until the Thanksgiving game, the tradition is still very much there, hopefully we can come out as a winner with that one as well as Lawrence," continued Fleming.

"Hey, it's a new month, hopefully that is a sign for good things to come," said Sullivan.

November has already been good to this young team. Hopefully, it will get even better next year.

Tough loss for WHS soccer

by James Pote

Last Tuesday it was the girls field hockey team losing against Ipswich, and on Friday afternoon the Wilmington High School boys' varsity soccer team took on Lynn English in the Manning Bowl and they, too fell short by a 1-0 score.

However, Wilmington had a tremendous number of opportunities to put this one away and advance to the next round in State Tournament play.

Junior defender Andy Armata was robbed by a diving save from he Bulldogs goalie John Gilbert who dove in mid-air to his right to stop the in-direct blast from Armata.

"Before the game, I was told that the goalie (Gilbert) was shaky and erratic, but that ball was labeled, and he made probably the best save I have seen all year. He played great," said Wilmington head coach Dick Scanlon.

At halftime the Wildcats went into their lockerroom with a scoreless tie in which they outplayed the Bulldogs by outshooting them, 10-1.

"We had a lot of opportunities, that we just didn't capitalize on. They were a quick, defensively sound team that reminded me a lot of Dracut. The weather (constant rain throughout the game) was a big factor, there was more trouble setting the ball than usual," continued Scanlon.

Just minutes after the second half started, the Dogs scored on what would be their only score of the game and the game winner on a throw-in which was headed over goalie Steve Smith's head.

"The kid made a great play, heading the ball into the corner. It was a great play," emphasized Scanlon.

Tewksbury Youth Hockey

The Redmen Squirt B team outskated the Wilmington B team in local Youth Hockey League action last week.

Ryan Carrigan opened the scoring with a quick goal at 11:55 of the first period. Tewksbury kept the pressure on, as Carrigan scored his second goal with a good pass by the defense picking up the assist on Matt Ginsburg and Adam Rooney. Duran McNeil scored on a great backhanded shot off a nice pass from Marc Bristol to make it 3-0 at the end of one period.

In the second game of the weekend, the Squirt B's played the Burlington B team in their first meeting of the year. Ryan Carrigan scored with an assist to Craig Boyle to start the Redmen off and running. Craig Boyle netted a goal with an assist by Ryan Carrigan and Ryan Russell to end the first period.

Brian Losh in goal for Tewksbury held Burlington to just one goal in the game. John O'Leary and Matt Harriman played their finest game of the season on defense to shutdown Burlington's attack in the second period.

Tewksbury came out flying to score two quick goals 31 seconds apart by Ryan Russell and Chad Andella. Adam Hill assisted on both goals to end the game at 4-1.

In their first game of the season the Tewksbury Instructional teams (Chiefs vs. Braves) faced off. Scott O'Neill scored first to give the Chiefs an early lead. Brian McGrath in the net for the Braves stopped several shots before Ryan Walsh scored with an assist to Daniel Mullane.

In the second period the Chiefs scored their third goal on a nice shot by Roby Harris to make it a 3-1 game at the end of two periods.

The Braves had some quality shots on Frank Halley, but Halley shut the door on the Braves the rest of the game with some defense help by Patrick Cullity and David Balfour. Scott O'Neill scored his second goal, with an assist to Jenna Bristol to end the game.

Charlie Redmond, Mike Cotto, Sean Layton and John Deland

played a smothering defensive game.

Wilmington's "D" team finished 8-0, undefeated and unscored on. The team advanced to the conference playoffs against Arlington Sunday at Dracut.

outdoors column

Take a doubter along

by Bill Conlon

What is hunting all about? I know that many of you reading this are hunters, but I also know that many of you are not. Never did and never will. Many of you turn to this column for its abstract outlook on the world, or to see if I got my sense of humor fired up today.

Those of you who don't hunt don't know what hunting is really like. It's true. You just don't know.

And if hunting is going to survive into the next century, hunters have to become teachers. It's that simple. The sport is in trouble.

For millennia, hunters taught their youngsters to hunt. Today we still hand down that tradition, just as our prehistoric ancestors did. Why, once there was a "rite of passage" to mark a youngster's elevation to the rank of hunter, but no more. The modern "tribe" no longer thanks or rewards those who bring meat to the cooking fire. Gee, a feast would be nice ...

More and more, the fear of guns is keeping people away from firearms of any kind whatsoever. The sight of a gun, even a "work of art" shotgun, sends many people into fits. They panic, literally panic, at the sight of a gun, any gun. And that's wrong.

Add to that the "tree-hugger" idea that animals are just people in furry coats, and the raw lie that all hunters are drunken vandals with no respect for any life -- human included -- and the writing is on the wall for the end of hunting before the year 2000.

Don't doubt for a second that the sport of hunting is fading fast. Those of us who hunt, and who teach our kids to hunt, are being outnumbered and its getting worse. When the sad balance tips far enough, even the NRA won't be able to save the sport, or firearms. Majority rules.

The only answer lies in education. If you hunt, you know what a day in the field is like. It's great exercise in beautiful surroundings, you use all your senses to the fullest, and if you get lucky you might get off a shot or two. Non-hunters don't understand that at all. They simply don't know what hunting is really like.

In short, they need to be shown the sport of hunting. Impart what you know to someone who doesn't hunt or shoot.

Bring a friend or relative, or best of all someone who thinks that guns are wicked and evil, and go visit the target range some Sunday. For the price of a box of ammunition you may win a convert to shooting, or at least diffuse their mindless fear of guns. You don't have to wear a halo and preach in flowery terms about the politics of gun control. Just go to the range, and let them squeeze off a few. Show them that guns are just machines, nothing more. Show them that guns have a use beyond the senseless killing of inner city teens, that guns can be fun. Just go have some fun!

A bystander doesn't need a license to go hunting, so take a spectator on your next trip. A friend or relative, maybe a business associate who talks down hunting at the water cooler, can be a useful ally in the field. (It won't hurt to have an extra body beating the bushes. Sort of a bird dog without fleas, eh?)

Show them that hunting is a lovely walk in the wild, that it takes sharp eyes and ears and woodsman skills to find game. Show them that a good day of hunting means you got to go out; at all, and that a great day means you got off a shot. Let them carry a camera, if that makes them feel better. But bring them.

In any event, involve a non-hunter in your autumn sport. Nobody can convince a rabid anti-hunter, since their religious fervor doesn't allow for opposing views, but the world is full of non-hunters who are curious about hunting. Most people are willing to listen to both sides of any argument, but they don't go hunting because nobody has taken them.

Show them, first hand, that we're not bloodthirsty Bambi slayers and Twenty-bird blasters. Demonstrate, hands-on, that shooting can be fun. The fence-sitter that you take to the range this Sunday might become the crucial vote when a ban on firearms comes up in a future election.

You can talk all you want about the shooting sports and hunting, but the average non-hunter won't believe it without seeing it. The anti-hunters have spent millions of bucks on the propaganda that guns and hunting are evil and wrong, and it will take extra effort to turn that around.

Only you, good hunter, can save your sport. Take somebody who disagrees along, and let them see for themselves what it's all about. It's the only way to be sure.

--- Tackle Box ---

Well, I'm off in the local woods this week, trying to catch a little bow hunting during a week of vacation. I won't be any further than 10 miles away from where you read this, but that's plenty. There are lots of deer in this general area. Plenty of 'em. Wish me luck, and I'll see you next week.

Tough trio

Tewksbury High School soccer players Jackie O'Brien and Mandy Deroche (26) guard the goal during MVC girls' soccer action.

Wilmington Youth Hockey

by James Pote

For the third straight game the Wilmington Youth Hockey Squirt C team lost by one goal as they still are searching for their first win of the season.

Through the parity round, the Wildcats have lost five games, with four by one goal, as this one last Saturday morning was no different against North Andover as Wilmington fell short, 2-1.

Ryan Thibideau scored the only goal which was assisted by Steve Smith and Chris Cappozzi.

Again goalie John Dell'Anno came up with big saves. Along with John, forwards Bobby MacIver and Jason Riley had really strong games.

Wilmington teams enter Olympix

A Prayer to the Blessed Virgin

(Never found to fail)

O Most beautiful Flower of Mount Carmel, Fruitful Vine, Splendour of Heaven, Blessed Mother of the Son of God, Immaculate Virgin, assist me in this my necessity. O Star of the Sea, help me and show me herein you are my Mother.

O Holy Mary, Mother of God, Queen of Heaven and Earth, I humbly beseech you from the bottom of my heart, to succour me in this necessity; there are none that can withstand your power.

O, show me herein you are my Mother. O Mary, conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to Thee. (3 times)

Sweet Mother, I place this cause in your hands. (3 times)

Say for 3 consecutive days and publish.
God Bless

The "Wilmington Weed"

by Capt. Larz Neilson
Yes, gentle reader. You have a nice lawn. The home is well cared for. Over to the west is some land with all sorts of weeds, maple trees and other brush. You have erected a fence there, because the land is a part of an old farm. Brush is growing near the fence - profusely.

Oh well, you say. There has always been brush along that fence! Look again. At this time of the year, a month or so before Thanksgiving the leaves have turned yellow. Just about the color of the leaves of a swamp maple.

It's worth a second look.

That brush, gentle reader, is the Western Buckthorn. Herb Barrows imported it into Wilmington from the mid west about 1916. Herb never realized he had made an error. He imported the plant so he could sell it, everywhere!

It is everywhere, now.

All the towns in Middlesex County have Western Buckthorn growing, as do towns in adjoining counties. Thick banks of the brush, impossible to get through.

Over in Concord, where the farmers and Minutemen made their way to the Rude Bridge That Arched the Flood there was, about 10 years ago, a heavy growth of buckthorn, about 100 yards to the west of where those embattled farmers trod.

The plants were closely grown together, and about as high as a lilac bush. Run up to the barn, or some such place, and get an ax to cut them down.

That will do no good, gentle reader. The only way to cut a buckthorn and make a job of it is to cut through the roots!

Cut the roots, and the buckthorn will grow no more. Don't cut the roots and more buckthorns will be springing up.

Mr. Barrows, back in 1916 had been the chairman of the committee which had just built the new high school - now the Swain School. He did a lot of work, and never collected a cent for it.

He was the chairman of the finance committee for half a century, and that, gentle reader, was some accomplishment. But he did not realize the portents, when he imported the Western Buckthorn into Wilmington. He was going to sell those plants.

The Western Buckthorn does not have berries. It reproduces by growing "drupes" two seeds, side by side, in what one would call a berry. Birds like to eat them. Then they drop the stones, over the landscape, and the Western Buckthorn springs up, everywhere.

This writer calls it The Wilmington Weed. It will take an awful amount of work, to rid the soil in these counties of that Wilmington Weed.

And - if no one does - Heaven Forbid!!!

Two Harnden Massacres

by Capt. Larz Neilson
Robert C. Harnden of Memphis, Tennessee toured Wilmington last September to visit the homeland of his ancestors. He also toured Maine, where also his ancestors had lived. Mr. Harnden has supplied information to the Town Crier on the last attack by Indians on a member of the Harnden family.

The first attack was in what was then a part of the town of Reading, on May 12, 1707. Today the site is in North Wilmington, easterly of Marcia Road and northerly of the Woburn Street playground.

Half a dozen Abnaki Indians made the attack, in revenge for the death of a squaw near the Woburn line earlier that year. The Abnaki tribe lived on land in northern New Hampshire and Maine, and up into Canada. Deacon John Harnden was attending a church meeting in Reading that night.

The Abnaki chopped a hole through the roof. Most of the children escaped to hide behind "Indian" Rock, near the Aprile home, off Marcia Road. Susanna Harnden and probably a daughter were killed.

The Abnaki found the children, hiding behind the rock. Daughter Abigail was stabbed in the back and thrown into a pond, now at the northern end of Marcia Road. The pond was dry, in the past summer.

Abigail survived, to marry a son of the family of Mrs. Nurse, she who was convicted of being a witch in Salem, and put to death. Abigail's husband died and she later married Daniel Eames. From that couple, the Eames family of Wilmington was descended.

Samuel Harnden, a close relative of Abigail, was born in Andover in 1699, and moved to Maine to settle near the present town of Woolwich.

There is a monument near Woolwich to show the site of the "Last Massacre of the Indian Wars on the Kennebec." The date was June 9, 1758.

Mary Harnden, daughter of Samuel Harnden was among the victims of a massacre by Indians June 9, 1758. The wife of Ebenezer Preble, she was the daughter of Samuel Harnden, born in Andover in 1699.

How Methuen was named

by Capt. Larz Neilson

Wilmington and Tewksbury are two towns which can thank the Colonial Governor for their names. A third town happens to be Methuen, also in Middlesex County. It is a story which was revealed in 1975, when Lt. John B. Cote of that town wrote the story of the Methuen Minutemen:

"The town of Methuen is unique in that it is the only place in the world so named. When the original act of incorporation of the town was passed in December of 1725, it is believed that Governor Dummer inserted the name when he affixed his signature to the document. To this day, it is impossible to be absolutely certain of his reason or what suggested the name to him.

American Elms remain

by Capt. Larz Neilson

Do any of the stately American Elm trees still grow, within the reading radius of the Town Crier?

Many of the farms of Tewksbury and Wilmington many years ago were graced by the elm trees which could be seen growing along any old country road.

There were over a dozen elms, on "Pop's Farm," on the hill where Harnden Street and Glen Road meet in Wilmington. The Carter Farm, in Tewksbury, where until recently there were some stately greenhouses, also had many stately American Elms. This writer can name dozens of sites where once the American Elm grew, but all now seem to be gone.

There are, today in Boston, 137 American Elms growing along the Commonwealth Mall. The Christian Science Monitor, in a recent edition told of Stella Trafford, a lady who established a Commonwealth Avenue Mall Committee, to care for trees and other plants. That committee is part of a larger organizational group, part of which is the Friends of the Public Garden.

The Monitor reported on the work of Stella and her friends, in saving trees, and then commented that this year's drought took its toll of more elms.

But 137 American Elms, all over 100 years old are still growing along the Commonwealth Mall.

Santa Anas winds blow more than fire

by Capt. Larz Neilson
The people of the United States for the past several weeks have heard and read of the Santa Anas, winds which blow across Southern California and into the Pacific Ocean. The tales have been terrible. Raging fires have caused damages in the millions of dollars.

To many people it was perhaps, the first time that they had heard of a Santa Ana, but not to this writer.

Sixty years ago I was serving on ships in the Pacific, and encountering Santa Ana winds every fall and winter. They blew across Southern California then as they do now - but there were no homes of millionaires on top of the hills overlooking the Pacific.

The harbor of San Pedro and Wilmington did not feel the Santa Ana very much, but 60 miles south the wind was felt, furiously at times.

The Santa Ana reached down off the shores of Mexico for several hundred miles. Ships which were headed northerly to the United States would lose several miles an hour in their speed.

The wind was caused by "high" pressure systems, coming down from Canada and across the United States. If such a high pressure system could "find" a low pass in the mountains, it would blow across, to the annoyance of the inhabitants. Not only in Southern California.

Those "highs," when down in the Gulf of Mexico would "blow" across the Gulf of Tehuantepec, and into the Pacific. Tehuantepec is the narrow "waist" of Mexico.

Ships going north would "hug" the coastline of Mexico to avoid the

Tewksbury to observe Education Week

by Christine McGrath
Tewksbury Supt. of Schools

The Tewksbury Public Schools will celebrate American Education Week during the week of November 15, 1993. Parents and citizens are urged to visit the schools and observe the teachers and the students in action. Each school has planned a variety of special activities in honor of this important annual event.

Visitors to Tewksbury Memorial High School will have the opportunity for coffee with the principal Tuesday, Nov. 16 and Wednesday, Nov. 17 from 8 to 10 a.m. followed by a tour of the building and visits to the classrooms. An interactive program involving the High School Nursery School and the Heath Brook School Kindergartens has been scheduled for Wednesday, Nov. 17 at 1 p.m.

The John W. Wynn Middle School has scheduled parent visitations by grade levels. The specific schedule is as follows: Monday, Nov. 15 Teams 6A and 7A, Tuesday, Nov. 16, teams 8A and 6B, Wednesday, Nov. 17, Teams 7B and 8B, Thursday, Nov. 18, Teams 6C, 7C and 8C. This schedule has been designed to accommodate those parents who have children at more than one grade level.

Parents who are unable to visit on those days are welcome on Friday, Nov. 19. The daily visitation schedule will begin at 8:20 a.m. with an orientation coffee followed by school tours, classroom visitations, lunch and afternoon classroom observations. The schedule will conclude at 2 p.m. Visitors are welcome to participate in the entire program or that portion of the program which is convenient for them. The goal of the program is to increase parent and citizen understanding of the middle school program.

The Heath Brook School will host parent visitations on Tuesday, Nov. 16 and Wednesday, Nov. 17 from 9:30 to 11 a.m. with kindergarten visitations held Nov. 16 at 9:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. Parents are encouraged to visit the Heath Brook Writing Center and the Computer Lab. School visitations at the Dewing School have been scheduled for Nov. 16 and Nov. 18 from 9:30 to 11 a.m. and at the North Street and the Trahan for Nov. 17 and 18 from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. Marcia Sewall a noted children's author and illustrator will be making classroom presentations at the Trahan on Nov. 18.

We hope that many of our parents will be able to participate in the celebration of American Education Week. We look forward to your visit and the opportunity to share the talents of our children and faculty. Thank you for supporting the efforts of the Tewksbury Public Schools during this annual celebration and throughout the school year.

(l-r) Annmarie Latta, 9 and Amy Lynch, 9, both of Junior Girl Scout Troop 661 of Tewksbury are amazed by their creation. They participated in the MetLife Outdoors Nature Crafts at Metropolitan Technology Park in Tewksbury. Ecologists taught participants how to make artwork from nature and discussed how weather conditions affect plants and wildlife.

Halloween on the Harbor for Campfire

Tewksbury Camp Fire leaders Liz Robinson, Susan Keskula, Diane Parcella, Pat Takach and Billerica leaders Cathy Goodwin and Alice

Danielson accompanied 20 Camp Fire members to George's Island for Halloween on the Harbor. Despite drizzle and cool temperatures, the group departed from Long Wharf in Boston aboard the Provincetown II for a 45 minute cruise to George's Island, complete with entertainment.

After docking on the island the group headed to Fort Warren which had been turned into a haunted fort for the occasion. They were treated to a Spider Chamber, Mirkwood Forest, Mad Scientist, Witch's Kitchen and many other scary scenes within the fort. They also caught sight of the Lady in Black who is an apparition that haunts the fort at any time of the year.

Everyone went home with goody bags from George's Island. Some also participated in the contests and games offered on the return trip and left with prizes. A great time was had by all, despite the less than perfect weather.

Successful Troll Book Fair at Heathbrook School

The Troll Book Fair was a big success this fall. The Scholastic Book Fair is scheduled for the spring.

The PAC will sponsor a Laser Show for the third, fourth and fifth grades, scheduled for Nov. 17 and 18. If this program is beneficial for the younger students, another show may be booked.

A vote to give the Special Needs PAC five percent of the fundraiser profits passed. Each Tewksbury school has been asked to help in whatever way it can.

Nov. 15-19 is National Education Week. The school will have visitation days Tues., the 16th and Wed., the 17th.

The school will be collecting non-perishable foods for needy families. Food collected goes to the K of C. The K of C donates a turkey, baskets, and distributes to Tewksbury residents. Dates are Nov. 17-23. Last day to donate is Nov. 23.

The Reading Club is a great success. The club meets Tuesday and Thursday mornings from 8 to 8:30. The children read, do activities and discuss the stories they have read.

winds from a Tehantepecer. It meant 50 or 100 miles more distance, but better speed.

Further south, near Costa Rica, was another wind, of the same nature. It was called "Papagayo." Sometimes, it was said, the "Papagayo" could be felt as far south as the equator.

But today it isn't the wind, in those Santa Anas. It's those new homes, on the hills. Worth millions of dollars, they make a spectacular fire, if someone can set the fire.

According to late reports, that is what has been happening.

Tewksbury's Bernie King Checklist for a hero

By KEN MAGUIRE

Bernie King does not consider himself a hero, despite his qualifying for the most important categories on the hero checklist.

Did he save someone's life? Yes. Did he boldly risk his own life? Yes. Would he do it again? In a heartbeat.

On April 1 of this year, Bernie King, a husband and father of four who works part-time for Domino's Pizza and describes himself as an 'everyday guy,' was making a pizza delivery in Medford when he noticed heavy smoke above a row of houses straight ahead of him.

Sensing danger the 35-year-old drove the wrong way down a one-way street, Princeton St., where at number 27 a woman was screaming that her 73-year-old mother, Lydia Covino, was still upstairs. With flames engulfing the third floor and spreading rapidly, King ran inside.

A minute later he was outside again, having found no one. But the woman was adamant and became hysterical at the thought of losing her mother.

"I ran back up the stairs and proceeded to go to the third floor," King recalled. "There was smoke everywhere. Fortunately her mother came out, from where I still don't know. She was staggering and probably a little disoriented. I put her over my shoulder and carried her down the stairs. I don't know if she ever would have made it out herself.

Fortunately there were no serious injuries resulting from the two-alarm blaze that fire officials said was caused by careless smoking. Newspaper reporters and television cameras quickly made their way to Domino's on Mystic Ave. to speak to King, and treat him as if he was a newly-crowned one.

More recently, Reader's Digest awarded him a $500 prize and named him one of its Heroes of the Year. Bernie is glad everything turned out for the best, but he sometimes wonders "what if" something went wrong.

"It's a weird feeling," he said. "I sometimes try not to think about it because 'what if' comes into play too many times. I've got a wife and four kids at home. There's a lot of responsibility there."

So what are the chances of him going back into a burning house again?

"I'd do it again even knowing what could happen. I couldn't stand there and not do anything. I just couldn't do it. I wouldn't be able to live with myself if I didn't at least try."

Ironically the whole incident only took about four minutes, allowing plenty of time for Bernie to make his cheese pizza delivery in Somerville within the 30-minute requirement for Domino drivers.

King, a Material Planner for Ionics in Watertown, was commended by the Medford Fire Department and was awarded a gift certificate for dinner by the Domino's owner. He used the gift certificate for his wedding anniversary dinner with wife Denise.

She is proud of her husband's heroics, but was understandably concerned on the night of the incident. Bernie phoned her

Responding to a child in an emergency

Very often, just by their nature, children are unfortunately vulnerable to serious injury. Although preventing childhood accidents is a top priority for many adults, it is not always possible. Knowing how to respond correctly and quickly in an emergency situation can help save a child's life.

The Pediatric CPR Program at Melrose-Wakefield Hospital offers important information on how an adult can help an injured child in situations such as drowning, electrical shock, airway obstruction and choking, and allergic reactions.

The program emphasizes the prevention of childhood accidents and keeping children healthy. Participants learn cardiopulmonary resuscitation and choking-saving skills for infants and children.

The Pediatric CPR Program is open to parents, grandparents, teachers, day care providers and others who are interested in learning this life-saving skill for children. Those successfully completing the program earn a one-year card from the American Heart Assn.

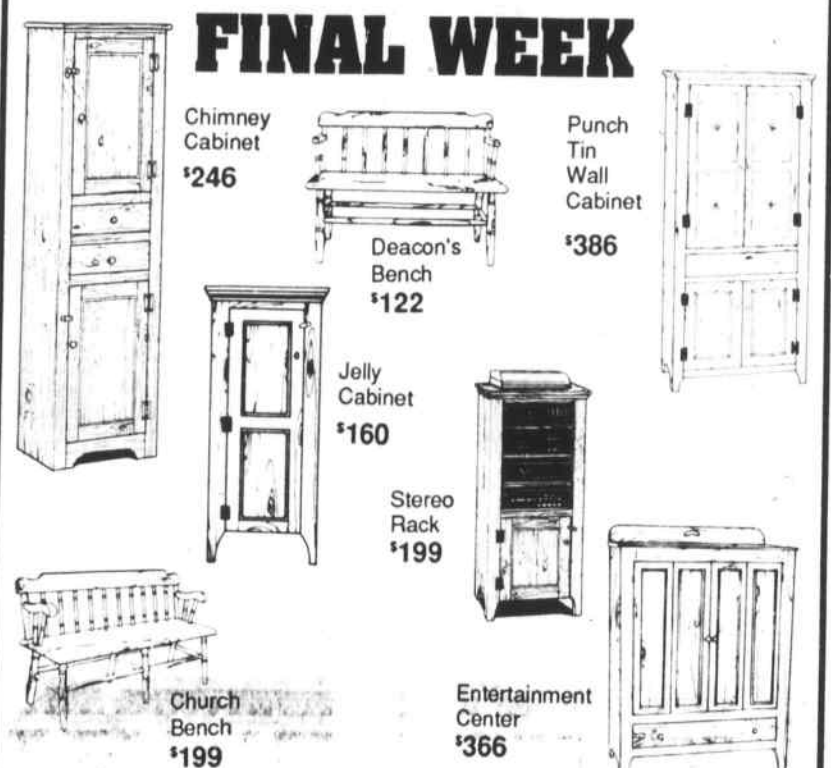

The program will be held on Saturday, November 20, from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. and on Mondays, November 29 and December 6, from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. Those participating in the program can choose either the Saturday afternoon program or the Monday evening program. The course, conducted by Melrose-Wakefield Hospital certified instructors, is held in the MWH Family Education Center. The fee for this program is $70 per couple or $40 for singles. Registration is required. To register or for more information on the Pediatric CPR Program call the Childbirth Education Department at Melrose-Wakefield Hospital at (617) 979-3408 or (617) 979-3515.

About The Towns

by Phyllis Nissen

It's "Operation Watersense"

MWRA FINDS A HOME IN LYNNFIELD - The Massachusetts Water Resources Authority and Lynnfield town officials joined together recently to launch Operation Watersense at a Salem St., Lynnfield home.

Available to all Lynnfield residents in both water districts there, Operation Watersense is a voluntary residential program to assist households in obtaining free water-saving fixtures through direct installation by trained crews.

Fixtures offered include water-saving showerheads designed to save two to four gallons a minute, faucet aerators which save up to one-and-a-half gallons of water a minute, and toilet dams which save up to one-and-a-half gallons per flush. Also available are leak detection dye tablets for toilets.

For more information about Operation Watersense, phone 1-800-675-7110.

SCULPTURE IN WOBURN? A SHURE HIT - From Skylight Studios on Salem Street in Woburn to Fenway Park to FAO Schwartz on Boylston and beyond, the work of Woburn sculptor Robert Shure is known throughout the area.

Unveiled recently at Fenway Park, his half-ton statue of Cy Young was moved from there to the middle of Northeastern's campus, the former site of the Huntington Avenue Baseball Grounds which saw the 1903 World Series between Young's Boston Pilgrims (renamed the Red Sox four years later) and the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Shure played a major role in the renovation of the old Boston State House and created the FAO Schwartz Teddy Bear on Boylston Street. He sculpted the Korean War Memorial at the Charlestown Navy Yard, the War Memorial sculpture on Norwood Common and the ornamental walls on Hollywood Boulevard at Universal Studios in Florida.

He is now working on a relief portrait of George Washington commissioned by the U.S. Department of the Interior. That portrait is destined to be hung above the elevator at the Washington Monument.

WAKEFIELD'S DEMARCO SCORES BIG - Wakefield's West Side Social Club has named former baseball star Les DeMarco its 1993 Citizen of the Year.

A winning pitcher at Wakefield High and an all-scholastic pitcher in 1946, DeMarco played in the Canadian-American League before he was signed by the Philadelphia Athletics. He also played in the Northern, Canadian and ... North Shore Leagues.

The West Side Social Club is honoring DeMarco - who made an impact not only in area sports but as manager of the Wakefield Merchants - as an exemplary citizen, concerned individual, accomplished sportsman, and true team manager.

READING FOOD PANTRY NEEDS CONTINUE - Although the Reading Food Pantry shelves are not bare, this week anyway, its wallet is empty. The pantry has run out of the available funds which support 50 or so families in need of perishable foods such as meats, fresh vegetables and milk.

Because the needs change from week to week, those who would like to donate to the pantry are urged to mail a check in any amount to Sister Jean Delaney, St. Athanasius Church, 500 Haverhill St.,

Reading 01867 or to drop by - phone first - the Old South United Methodist Church in the center of Reading which serves as food pantry headquarters.

The pantry is a project of the Reading Clergy Association.

BRADY BUNCH SURFACES IN NORTH READING - A survivor of management in the private sector and a six-year fire department veteran, James Brady has been sworn in as a captain in the North Reading Fire Department.

Brady has a B.A. in business economics from St. Anselm's and an associate's degree in fire science from North Shore Community College. He is pursuing a B.S. in fire science administration from Salem State.

THIS IS MY BROTHER MIKE AND THIS IS MY OTHER BROTHER ... Yes, we do realize the following edited "quote of the week" from the Wakefield edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle" could involve a second marriage or two: X, of here and there, is married to the former Y of there and here "and they have four children, Mike, Sharon, Susan, and Mike."

"About The Towns" covers recent events in the 13-town Middlesex East area. Because Middlesex East deadlines are early, please check the front sections of this paper for up-to-date information about your city or town. We also welcome original material - please send it to Phyllis Nissen, "About The Towns," Middlesex East Supplement, Box 240, Reading, MA 01867.

ton, the Winchester Imaging Center and the Health Image of the Melrose-Wakefield Hospital offered over 60 free mammograms to women who are underinsured or non-insured during October which is Breast Cancer Awareness month.

Over 182,000 women will get breast cancer in 1993 and 46,000 women will die of the disease. Realtors Carol Marrano-Shapiro of Stoneham and Marilyn Parsons of Melrose, co-chairs of the "Adopt-A-Woman" program are very excited about the joint efforts of the business community and health care providers who helped make this year's program such a success.

"M.E.'s for You"

Bernie says today that he may have gone in the house for a third time, but it would not have been for anybody's mother, father, sister, or brother. Instead, it was man's best friend.

"I'm an animal lover," Bernie said. "I would have attempted to find it. I'd probably go to the top of the stairs because at that time it wasn't totally engulfed."

For the Reader's Digest award, Bernie is awaiting his $500 prize. His sister-in-law is a subscriber and had nominated him this summer. He plans on continuing his part-time position with Domino's, a job he loves and describes as an "easy way to make money."

If his definition of an "easy" job includes saving people from burning buildings, Domino's had better not make him a recruiter or trainer, that's for sure.

In addition to his two jobs, Bernie's wife works fulltime. "Today, you have to do it," he says, alluding to the state of the economy for middle-class families in America and in the northeast in particular.

Having covered all the essentials of a full-fledged Hero, Bernie King is back to his normal life as if nothing extraordinary ever happened. Now at the Winchester Domino's, he is keeping an eye peeled for life-saving situations in that town.

Is it safe to say that King would do the same thing today? You can bet your life on it.

Dog spectacular in Boston this Sunday

The Pedigree® Brand's Bay Colony Dog Spectacular will be held at the Bayside Expo Center through Sunday, November 14. On each day of the show, more than 1,200 pedigree pooches will compete for "Top Dog" honors within their respective breeds.

The Dog Show Spectacular will showcase more than 130 breeds of dogs; among them will be such favorites as cocker spaniels, golden retrievers and Labrador retrievers.

Dogs will compete daily in conformation classes, a process of elimination that ultimately awards only one dog the coveted "Best in Show" trophy. On Thursday and Friday, dogs will also compete in Obedience Trials, which score a dog's ability to perform exercises such as "heel," "sit," "down" and "stay."

More than 50 concession booths will give away samples of dog food and sell grooming accessories and dog beds, toys and clothes. More than 25 public service booths will provide information about breeder referral, careers in the sport of dogs and purebred adoption programs. "There are as many breed rescue associations as there are breeds of dogs, and they will be well represented at the Dog Spectacular," said Chet Collier, chairman of the Bay Colony Cluster.

The Bay Colony Dog Spectacular will run from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Thursday, November 11 through Sunday, November 14, at the Bayside Expo Center (Exit 15 off the Southeast Expressway). Tickets are available at the door; $5 for adults and $2 for children and seniors.

New eye surgery corrects nearsightedness

Just about everyone who wears glasses wonders if surgery can help them.

John Gagnon of Wakefield, an avid runner and sportsman, was no exception. He had heard about a revolutionary surgical procedure to correct nearsightedness, a problem that affects more than 70 million Americans.

"Especially when I would run, I just wanted to be free of wearing glasses. Besides the weight and shifting, I was tired of trying to see through them in the rain and bad weather." And, says John, "I can't wear contacts because I get eye infections."

Today, after an operation which took less than 10 minutes for each eye, John feels like a miracle happened. Now, his glasses are history -- not only when he runs, but in his close work as an accountant.

This remarkable new surgical technique is called Radial Keratotomy (RK).

John's eye surgeon, Dr. Will Horsley of the Horsley Eye Clinic in Stoneham, says, "John was legally blind when I first saw him. He couldn't see the big E on the chart from four to five feet away. After the operation on his first eye, we corrected his vision from 20/400 to 20/35, which is a vast improvement, better than what we expected."

Dr. Horsley says that most patients after keratotomy can see well without visual aids. "For many people, RK can offer an alternative to glasses," says the board-certified eye surgeon.

But he emphasizes that some people are better candidates for RK than others. "John's nearsightedness was so severe, that we had to be very conservative in predicting what RK could do. That's why his improvement is so remarkable," he says.

"When I took the eye test to renew my driver's license, I felt I did better than some who were wearing glasses," said John, age 32, who works at Siemens Nixdorf in Burlington.

In Radial Keratotomy, according to Dr. Horsley, microscopically small radial incisions, like spokes on a wagon wheel, are made in the outer surface of the cornea. This flattens the central part of the cornea, which is the clear front cover of the eye. This flattening alters the way light is focused by the eye, dramatically improving vision, he says.

In nearsighted patients such as John, the cornea is curved to an exaggerated degree. Radial Keratotomy brings the curvature closer to normal.

Recent ophthalmic advances have made this technique much safer and more predictable than in earlier years. Dr. Horsley uses incredibly accurate, third generation instrumentation to create precise, ultra-fine incisions that are undetectable to the naked eye.

"I didn't feel a thing during the operation," John reports. "I was awake all the time. When Dr. Horsley was operating, it was like looking through a pool of water."

Dr. Horsley performs Radial Keratotomy in his office, using eye drops to numb the eye. "A thorough pre-surgical testing and evaluation is needed before we operate, of course," says Dr. Horsley, who is chief of ophthalmology at New England Memorial Hospital and is on the staff of Tufts New England Medical Center.

"With RK, there are very few restrictions on activities afterward," says Dr. Horsley.

Besides nearsightedness, keratotomy also improves or corrects astigmatism, he notes.

Dr. Horsley estimates that the demand for RK has grown to about 200,000 operations last year in the U.S. He says the new surgery can be a godsend to people with vision so poor they feel uncomfortable depending upon glasses in emergencies, like firefighters and police. Dr. Horsley says this new surgery also has great appeal to those who like the glasses-free look but can't tolerate or don't like contact lenses - and those like John, who find glasses restricting a sport, hobby or activity.

JOHN GAGNON of Wakefield, who was severely nearsighted, now enjoys life free of glasses or contacts thanks to RK, a new corrective eye surgery technique performed at the Horsley Eye Clinic in Stoneham.

ANTHONY MANCONI

I guess almost everybody does a little extra house cleaning before the holidays. Clara Moore was surprised to find four empty whiskey bottles way back on a closet shelf. When her handsome husband, Roger Moore, came home from work from Boston Gas, Clara confronted him with the evidence saying, "What do you know about these 'dead soldiers'?" Robert raised his left hand and said, "I swear, dear, I've never bought any 'empty' whiskey bottles in my life!" Dennis Tully told his teacher, "I lost my eraser." "That's okay," the teacher said, "Use the girl's behind until you find it." Mary Gallagher of Melrose is a kindergarten teacher at the Immaculate Conception School. One day she led the children in singing that delightful ditty, "The Old Gray Mare." Mary asked, "Does anyone know what an old gray mare is?" Jeffery

Farren raised his hand and said, "Teacher, I think it's the man who runs the city." My Aunt Nora's daughter said between sobs, "I'm going to teach my husband, Dan, a lesson Mom. I'm coming back home and live with you." Aunt Nora replied, "If you want to teach Dan a 'good lesson,' take me home with you and I will live with both of you!"

According to the latest magazine in my dentist's office, the recession will be over by next spring. The date on the magazine cover was October 1992. I asked Judy D'Ambrosio if her husband, Joe, believed in reincarnation. "What?" Judy shouted, "He doesn't even believe in life after dinner!"

Woodchips does not like to see a high school football game end with the score 52 to 0. At some point in the game, the winning coach should send in the second team, third team, the waterboy and/or perhaps even the cheerleaders. Hey! I always thought all games were just that - games for fun.

The Ten Commandments were short, clear and easily understood. That's because they were not written by a lawyer. Elephants will probably be residents at the Stone Zoo in Stoneham soon. I saw a tele-

School Notes

by Phyllis Nissen

A letter from college

COLLEGE STUDENT WRITES HOME: "My friends wanted to bleach their hair again, and then color it purple. But when one of them put the bleach on, part of her hair fell off and so they rushed to stop it. They said purple and blue could look great on my hair because it's blond. Do you think I should do it?"

Do you have kids at college? Do you want them to write home? Do you really want them to write home?

"I have classes. I work 13 hours a week. Also I am taking free aerobics classes every day from 6 p.m. to 7 p.m. So I don't have too much time to study. And so again I have started my former style of living - gallons of coffee and studying in the night," writes former Reading High exchange student Katarina Matasova to her "family" and friends in Reading, via her host family Dennis, Valerie, Gretchen, and Chris Laabs. Matasova returned from her native Slovakia in August to begin her college career at St. Michael's College in Vermont.

These school notes are dedicated to all those parents with children away at school, parents who have been told - infrequently and via phone - by those children that they love to receive mail from home but that they just have "no time" to write.

"How are my classes going? Oh, my God - mess!!!" begins Matasova, in a series of detailed reports on each of her classes and many of her activities. "The tempo of some teachers is really very high. The economics teacher is probably the hardest one. Each chapter has 20 pages of unbelievably hard text, and each period she wants us to work on a new chapter. It's awful. I am not able to read it so quickly!!!" Also math is hard. I am really happy that in the end of the book are the written results. I don't know what I'll do but during the weekend I'll have to stay in the dorm and study. My other friends are going to have parties but I have to study. Oh, well.

"School and classes are going well," she continues, a few weeks later. However, they are not as much fun as at the high school. My math class is real hard. I had already a test on Wednesday. The average of our class was 73 but I got 88 which was quite good. The highest grade in the class was 90 but the boy who got it is a mathematical genius. Our teacher is very nice but extremely strict. He cuts down points on every single little mini thing. Everything is based on individual study and the teacher just goes over the homework with us. Of course, on Wednesday I was dying, you know me. But I did my best - I am not a mathematical miracle.

Matasova's schedule includes economics, business, religion, math, working in the admissions office, studying, and surviving weekends which offer plays, dances, movies, videos, trips to Burlington, Vermont, and other tempting social fare.

"Weekends are the most fun here," she writes, in yet another letter. "We went to see the movie

MOVIES

by Rochelle Flynn

"Flesh and Bone"

Flesh and Bone Starring Meg Ryan, Dennis Quaid, James Caan. Written and directed by Steve Kloves. Produced by Mark Rosenberg, Paula Weinstein. Rated R.

West Texas. In Steve Kloves' latest film, the landscape is as much a part of the drama as the people walking its gaping spaces. Peace is occasionally drawn from the quiet and endless waves of rippling prairie grass. But more powerful is the parched poverty of motels and bars dotting the dusty byways driven by Arlis Sweeney.

Sweeney, played by Dennis Quaid, has tried to keep his pain anchored in his past by contriving a life based on routine and machines. He drives his rickety pick-up on the same circuit month after month, tending to his vending machines and spending his nights with wandering wives or cocktail waitresses. Commitment to anything other than his job is just not a part of his life. He's managed to cap off his emotions and it is enough to get him through each day.

Then Kay Davies is literally dumped into his life. The runaway wife of an abusive gambler, Kay is the eternal optimist, though she has little reason to be so. Arlis recognizes in her a life filled with emotional upheaval and disappointment. Yet Kay (Meg Ryan) has never lost the hope Arlis long ago buried. When these two connect, they do so on an emotional level that gives Arlis some respite from his closely guarded world. When Kay joins him, the possibility of healing suddenly enters his life.

But writer/director Steve Kloves (whose last and only film was "The Fabulous Baker Boys") has created nothing if not a Greek Tragedy. And like so many of those classical plays, this one requires the audience to

Cardio Studio North Reading Women's Fitness Club Grand Opening

The newest addition to the North Shore fitness community is an all women's health club named Cardio Studios, located at 197 Main St., North Reading.

"We had a vision of a place where women could work out in a comfortable atmosphere," wrote the founders.

That is why the mother/daughter team of Laura Baker and Leslie Baker Abreu set out to open a complete women's health club. Having first-hand experience in the set-up and running of Gold's Gym Plus in Braintree and Woburn, co-owned by Scott Baker, "we feel qualified in bringing to the area a unique concept in the fitness industry," they said.

Occupying more than 6,000 square-feet of the top floor of the Main Street address, Cardio Studios has selected state-of-the-art equipment for cardio vascular and fitness training, consisting of Stairmasters, Lifecycles, Lifestride treadmills and a complete circuit of Paramount Equipment with accompanying weights and benches for strength training, which studies show help slow the rate of bone loss in women.

Aerobic classes will include the latest in innovative workouts (i.e. step, muscle conditioning and more), performed on the newest suspended wood floor by certified instructors. Aerobic activity increases person's energy level while stimulating metabolism.

The studio's facilities include a full locker room that is a clean and comfortable place to begin and end a workout. It will consist of private showers and dressing areas and a dry heated sauna.

The studio will provide on-site babysitting service for a nominal fee with hours in the morning and evening.

Cardio Studios' credo is "Knowledge is power," so in turn the staff plans to provide monthly seminars on women's health, nutrition and fitness issues.

Cardio is very excited to be able to offer these services to the women of this area. Persons may visit the facility at 197 Main St., North Reading, just an eighth of a mile past Star Market.

The Grand Opening celebration will be Sunday, November 21, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Take a free step class at 12 noon with gold medal step champ Tracy Cardillo. There will be specialty low-fat foods and fun for everyone.

accept a huge coincidence for the drama to be effective.

Arlis is the product of monumental child abuse at the hands of a clever but demented drunk of a father. As a boy, Arlis was in Kay's house the night her family was shot during a robbery. As the elder Sweeney, Roy, James Caan instills a sick sense of family loyalty into his evil and controlling character. Roy used his young son to gain entry to people's homes so he could steal from them. Shooting a family was never meant to happen, but Roy did not flinch at doing so.

This premise is set up as the film unfolds, so if you can't accept that these two damaged people find one another, then you aren't going to be able to accept the story's denouement. However, these characters have been fleshed out with such emotional intensity by the actors that the plot actually takes a back seat.

Quaid has simply never been better. His Arlis is so crippled emotionally that he looks like a cornered animal when his old man rolls back into his life. Caan makes us believe in the power of evil with his domineering, and quite mad, drifter who plays people like puppets in his own private theater. And Ryan's usual bubbly is used here as a survival tactic. Unlike the others, she's at least wishful, but her hope is merely a life preserver that keeps her going.
